

Oh, the Books You'll Burn!

Publish Date:

April 2021

This article from the Autumn 2021 edition of the IPA Review is written by Manager of Online Content and Audio at the IPA, James Bolt.

If you thought cancelling six Dr Seuss books was the right decision, you are going to love the sequel to Oh, The Places You'll Go!

Congratulations!
Today is your day.
You're off to Utopia!
You're off and away!

You have ideas in your head.
And matches in your shoes.
You can steer your comrades
Any direction you choose.

You're on your own.
And you know what you know.
And YOU are the guy who'll decide
What thoughts can grow.

You'll look books up and down.
Look 'em over with care.
About some you will say,
"Oh this I cannot bear."

With your head full of rage
And your hands full of kindling,
You're too smart to allow any not-so-good inkling.

Yet you may still find some
Books that make you frown.
In that case, of course,
You will burn them all down.

It's quieter there
In the ashes-filled air.

Yet in freedom things happen,
and frequently do,
to people more brainy and cultured than you.

So when they start to question,
And disagree with you.
Just fight right back,
With your unruly crew.

OH!
THE BOOKS YOU'LL BURN!